

Due to the low voltage and insufficient capacity of a single cell, lithium-ion batteries are usually connected in series and in parallel as a battery pack or battery module to ...

According to the energy dissipation form, the battery equalization can be divided into two categories: passive equalization and active equalization [8, 14]. Passive equalization consumes the excess energy from the battery pack by resistors [9]. The shunting resistor equalizer has a simple circuit and low cost, but the slow equalization speed and serious heating become ...

For instance, a modular equalizer for a series-connected Li-ion battery pack in EVs is designed in [18], which divides the battery pack into M modules using C2C and C2P. Despite a reduction on the voltage stress on the electronic devices, the proposed equalizer requires a multi-winding transformer for each fly-back DC-DC converter.
